All lectures will be held at the Ruth Dill Johnson Crockett Building, 162 Ryders Lane, Douglass Campus, Rutgers-New Brunswick, starting at 4:30 p.m. and are free and open to the public.

IRW advances innovative feminist scholarship on women, gender, and sexuality. The Distinguished Lecture Series is part of IRW’s programming connected to its annual theme, which is Poverty for 2015-16. Other programs tied to this theme are IRW’s yearlong seminar, its undergraduate learning community, and an April 7, 2016 symposium on poverty and sexuality. For more information about IRW’s programming, see <http://irw.rutgers.edu>. IRW’s affiliate members include faculty, graduate students, and advanced undergraduates from all of Rutgers’ campuses, as well as feminist researchers from around the world who join IRW as Visiting Global Scholars.

The 2015-16 IRW Distinguished Lecture Series is supported by the School of Arts and Sciences, the Office of the Chancellor of Rutgers-New Brunswick, and the Centers for Global Advancement and International Affairs (GAIA Centers)
