

DECOLONIZING GENDER GENDERING DECOLONIZATION

Institute for Research on Women Distinguished Lecture Series 2013-2014

Thursday, September 19

Minoo Moallem Gender and Women's Studies, University of California-Berkeley
Vision, Value, and the Burden of Humanism

Thursday, October 24

Julie Livingston History, Rutgers University
The Gendered Intimacies of Global Health

Thursday, November 14

Marisa Belausteguigoitia Programa Universitario de Estudios del Género, UNAM
Are You Listening?: Tilted Pedagogies in Enclosed Spaces

Thursday, February 20

Elizabeth Povinelli Anthropology, Columbia University
The Four Figures of Sexuality: Sexuality, Power, Geontology

Thursday, March 6

Zakia Salime Sociology and Women's and Gender Studies, Rutgers University
Gender, Legality, and Public Ethics: Sites of Contestation

Thursday, April 10

Drucilla Cornell Political Science, Rutgers University
Can a Woman be a Chief?

All lectures will be held at the Ruth Dill Johnson Crockett Building, 162 Ryders Lane, Douglass Campus, Rutgers-New Brunswick, starting at 4:30 p.m. and are free and open to the public.

The IRW advances cutting-edge feminist scholarship on women, gender, and sexuality. The Distinguished Lecture Series is part of the IRW's programming connected to its annual theme, which during 2013-14 is Decolonizing Gender/Gendering Decolonization. Other programs tied to this theme are the IRW's yearlong seminar and its undergraduate learning community.

The IRW Distinguished Lecture Series is supported by the School of Arts and Sciences and the Office of the Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs.